

Witnessing & Verification

Consumer Services

Identity theft is a growing crime and it can start from the very first application for a loan or credit card.

echo's Document Witnessing and Verification Service ensures that the document reaches the final recipient securely by hand. The document is hand delivered and the signature is witnessed and any address or other details confirmed.

The document can be delivered at a time and a place to suit the recipient and then returned securely to the issuer. This results in a service seven days a week to either a business or residential address.

This service will reduce the overall time the document is travelling and ensure that the information supplied by the recipient is complete, correct and witnessed. That means for example, authorised funds or cards are available for faster use, which is a benefit to the lender and the consumer.
